Prolog

Many, many years ago, when Daddy and I first began dating, we established a tradition of dining at five-star restaurants. Back then, dining was an elegant affair—people dressed for dinner, and service unfolded as a seamless, choreographed experience.

A captain oversaw our evening, while silent servers attended to every detail. These evenings often stretched anywhere from two to six hours embodied refinement, romance, and tradition.

When we entered this Lifestyle, I immediately became captivated by High Protocol—the formality, elegance, beauty, and structure it provided. It felt like the highest expression of honor I could give to Daddy. It became a way to express my appreciation and devotion to him for all that he does. As our journey in this lifestyle continues to grow, the magic of High Protocol has become woven into our daily lives, bringing a depth of joy and connection that continues to inspire the two of us today.

So, it was only natural that when I asked Daddy if we could start hosting and teaching others about High Protocol events, he wholeheartedly agreed. Our vision was to create a safe, and welcoming space where others could learn, experience, and embrace the richness of a High Protocol evening.

I don't claim to be an expert in this practice or its place within the BDSM and Kink community, but I hope that as this journey unfolds, we will all grow and learn together deepening our understanding and appreciation of its beauty and structure.

This is just the beginning of a living document, open to evolution and contributions from those who share this passion. House of Xanadu is dedicated to making High Protocol events and education inclusive and accessible to anyone who wishes to study and practice this refined art within the BDSM and Kink community.

I invite you to embark on this magical journey of High Protocol with us.

*With magic and grace,
TheGirl Star*

High Protocol Vocabulary

American Style eating: After cutting your food, rest the knife along the upper edge of the plate. Then, switch the fork to your dominant hand and bring it to your mouth with the tines facing up.

Amuse-Bouche: a small complimentary appetizer bite-size. Translated from French to mean “amuse the mouth”.

Aperitif: (uh-PER-uh-teef) An alcoholic beverage typically served 30-to 60 minutes before the meal to “stimulate the appetite”.

Appetizer: a small dish of food or a drink taken before a meal or the main course of a meal to stimulate one’s appetite. Generally, refers to the first course of a meal

Bruschetta: (bruce-KET-uh), an Italian appetizer consisting of toasted bread, often rubbed with garlic, and topped with ingredients like tomatoes, herbs, and olive oil.

Buffet: A self-service dining style

Butler or English service: The server presents a platter to each guest. The guest then use serving utensils to take the food they desire onto their own plates. (Downton Abby)

Continental Style eating: Keep your utensils in the same hands. After cutting your food, lower your knife hand slightly and bring the fork to your mouth with the tines facing down.

Contingency Protocol: Predefined backup plans in case of unexpected disruptions or substitutions

Demitasse Cup: a small cup, typically holding 2-3 ounces, used to serve strong, after dinner specialty coffees like espresso.

Demitasse Spoon: A small spoon, smaller than a teaspoon. This spoon is used to stir sugar in a demitasse cup, serve condiments, or as a dessert spoon.

Dressing a table: a term that is seldom used.

A more decorative and elaborate approach, often used for special occasions by adding fancy linens, centerpieces, and decorative elements (See Tablescaping)

Digestif: (dē-zhes-'tēf) an alcoholic drink (such as brandy or a liqueur) usually taken after a meal

Family Style: Platters of food in the center of the table with service utensil besides or on each platter

Finger Bowl: small glass bowls filled with cool or lukewarm water, often adorned with a slice of lemon or a floating flower. Placed on an empty dessert plate, they are typically served after a meal involving messy finger foods like lobster or ribs, allowing diner guests to cleanse their hands before dessert.

Flatware: Usually made from stainless steel, which is durable and easy to care for.

High Protocol: A structured, formal way of interacting based on respect, etiquette, and hierarchy

Hors d'oeuvres: Hors d'oeuvres are usually served while standing and mingling.

Host/hostess dining service: Host or hostess to serve the meal

Majordomo: is the Spanish/Italian-cultural equivalent of the “butler administrator” a person who makes arrangements for another. (A house manager)

Mignardise (min-yar-DEEZ): meal concludes with a bite-sized dessert called Mignardise, which is different from the one served earlier. Mignardise is also served with coffee or an alcoholic drink as a light way to bring this prolonged yet surely royal meal to an end

Place Card: A card showing where each person is seated

Plate or plated: Dinner plates are fully prepared and garnished in the kitchen

Royal Silent Service: A highly formalized, disciplined, and prestigious style of service It involves the meticulous and artful arrangement of tableware with the elegance of royal service, ensuring flawless execution with strict adherence to hierarchy and etiquette.
(House of Xanadu Teaches)

Run-of-Show: A precise outline of the event’s structure, timing, and ritual flow

Russian service (Service à la Russe): is a style of formal table service where food is brought to the table in large dishes or platters and then served directly onto guests' plates by waitstaff.

Service au Gueridon: The chef prepares a dish in front of the guest

Setting a table: Serving or attending to tasks without speaking, often to minimize disruption

Silent Service: when a server anticipates a guest's needs without being asked.

Silent Service Protocol: Advanced service performed without speech or disruption

Silver Service: food is brought in on a platter, with the majordomo or butler serving individually from the left using silver cutlery. It is performed using service forks and spoons. Often requires trained servers with precise serving techniques.

Silverware: Typically made from silver or silver-plated metal, which can be more expensive and require more maintenance.

Tablescaping: is the art of arranging a table to create a specific mood or theme

Tips for tablescaping:

- Use scale, color, and texture to create an artistic tablescape.
- Be bold with your color scheme.
- Include signature items and embellishments

Visual Cues: Subtle non-verbal signals used by Hosts/Dominants to direct service

Place setting Sample

Step 1: Pre-Setting

- Remember where your iron is? What's an iron? Ensure all table linens are freshly pressed and spotless.
 - Formal Dinner Napkins (Cotton or Linen) 20-26 inches especially if you want a decorative fold
 - Appetizers and cocktail parties' smaller square napkins: 12-14 inch
- Stemware should be polished to a sparkling shine; use a cloth to remove fingerprints or water spots.
- Silverware must be pristine and free of smudges or stains.

Step 2: Setting the Table

- For precision, use a butler stick if available (Accuracy + Symmetry = Beauty).
- Position the charger plate or main plate 1 inch from the table's edge (Rule of Thumb).
- Silverware should be placed 1 inch from the charger or plate and 1 inch from the table's edge.
- Handle silverware by the handle or neck to avoid touching the eating surface.
- Knife blades should always face the plate.
- Allow for elbow room:
 - Aim for approximately 15 inches of space between place settings to ensure guests have room to rest their arms comfortably.
 - The ideal distance between plates is 24 inches from the center of one plate to the next.

Step 3: Tablescaping

Keep the season in mind when selecting florals and table linens.

- Centerpieces:
 - High arrangements create grandeur and draw the eye upward.
 - Be mindful of obstructed views; place strategically to avoid blocking sightlines.
 - Low arrangements provide balance and enhance conversation.
 - Create a more intimate setting.
 - Typically, 12 inches or lower for unobstructed views. Make sure guest can see those across the table.

- Candles: A combination of tapers and votives adds depth and ambiance. Just make sure they don't obstruct the view of the person sitting across from each other. (No Scent Candles)
 - Tip: To help prevent drips put candles in freezer before lighting so they burn slower.

- Seasonal Florals: Make sure flowers don't produce a very strong scent and don't forget the height rule.
 - Spring: Tulips, Daffodils
 - Summer: Roses, Hydrangeas
 - Fall: Chrysanthemums, Marigolds, Asters
 - Winter: Anemone, Amaryllis, Poinsettia

Seating Plan

The best approach is to design your seating plan to match the layout of your table.

- Number the seats, starting with the Head of House or Host/Hostess and moving clockwise around the table.
- Guest of Honor at the other end of the table.
- This method allows you to take notes on each guest and plan accordingly.
- When assigning seats, carefully consider each guest's preferences, relationships, and dynamics to create a comfortable and enjoyable dining experience.
 - Balance Personalities: Mix Extroverts with introverts to create engaging conversations.
 - Consider Common Interests: Seat people with shared hobbies or professional backgrounds together.
 - Break Up Cliques: Avoid placing close friends together to encourage new connections.
 - Age Diversity: Mix different age groups to foster diverse perspectives.
